DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 4 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claims contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. There is no support in the original specification for having a "predetermined" salt and nitrite concentration as recited in claim 4. This is a new matter rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 4 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Prosenbauer (US 4,286,510). Prosenbauer discloses a meat injection apparatus including a horizontal conveyor (4) for intermittently longitudinally moving meat products to be injected, a plurality of injection heads (8) located over the conveyor, a bank of vertically disposed injection needles (7) on each head (Fig. 3), a plurality of fluid reservoirs (20) in fluid flow communication with the heads (8) and the needles (7) therein to supply source of brine fluid to the needles, the banks of needles being capable of moving downwardly to inject meat (see Column 4, lines 17-19), each bank of needles being connected to a respective reservoir, and each reservoir being capable of containing brines of different concentrations. The limitations of the concentration of brine being different in each reservoir, the banks of injection needles move downwardly to inject the meat product by having an injection head connected to a reservoir having a high concentration of brine to penetrate an area of fat, having a salt and nitrite concentrate, based upon historical data to determine a location of lean and fat areas in the meat products, and by having an injection head connected reservoir having a lower concentration of brine to penetrate an area of lean are considered intended use since the brines or the meat including areas of fat and lean are not considered part of the apparatus. Regarding claim 5, note Prosenbauer discloses a separate fluid pump (23) as being connected to each head. Thus, the structural features of the instantly rejected claims are structurally met by the reference. While features of an apparatus may be recited either structurally or functionally, claims directed to an apparatus must be distinguished from the prior art in terms of structure rather than function.
